

The Open Marketplace for Quality Locums Staff

Your Challenge

As the next phase of the COVID-19 response unfolds, talent management flexibility is of the utmost importance. This is especially true for optimizing Locums staff and costs, which can vary widely due to shifting supply and demand factors, especially with many unknowns such as the pandemic's impact on physician billing rates by specialty and location. Planning now for the expected surge from resuming elective procedures requires careful management and access to a level of Locums talent that goes beyond what a single agency can provide.

Sourcing broadly from the market of Locums providers can help you meet your demands without sacrificing choice or quality while also allowing for true real-time price discovery on each assignment. Prepare now with the most flexible system available: Open Talent Marketplace by AMN Healthcare.
