Coder and CDI Specialist Development

Coding and CDI Specialist Development Programs from AMN Healthcare Can Energize Your Team and Enhance Your Revenue Cycle

The need for coders and clinical documentation integrity (CDI) specialists with critical thinking skills continues to grow. Why?

Technology has leapt forward. Claims are cleaner. Data integrity is improved. Automation can even simplify complex cases before billing. While all that is good, it has also deprived the industry of skilled coders and CDI specialists.

Organizations that recognize this gap are embracing change and working with AMN to invest in their people.

Acute care, physician practice, and even skilled nursing organizations are all implementing development programs. They are building teams that once again understand sequencing, DRG assignment, RAF scoring, and clinically relevant diagnoses. The goal? Retain staff, minimize dependency on staff augmentation, and ensure the support of new Revenue Cycle workflows.

An AMN Education Program Involves Three Steps

Assess & Plan

Everything begins with an assessment. A clear current state helps identify learning gaps and skills that need improving. Your team members and leadership are critical to this evaluation. Their input and confidence level help focus our efforts. We will work with you to set performance benchmarks and goals. More importantly, we'll use actual medical records from your organization to build the curriculum. Doing so makes the learning more practical and relevant.

Implement & Train

Coder and CDI specialist training can last up to six weeks. The work includes practical coding exercises and educational feedback. Daily online meetings will discuss chart review findings to accelerate learning. Training will not exceed five (5) hours per day so that trainees can still work within their current specialty to help balance workloads.

Audit & Monitor

Trainees will move to a live environment but be monitored on 100% charts for six to twelve weeks. Daily feedback will continue the education process. Leadership input is essential throughout, but most important during monitoring. Team and individual progress reports will track development, giving leadership a clear view of the new skill sets available.
